From Thursday's Daily.

GOOD MORNING.

It is with pardonable pride that THE DISPATCH makes its bow to the public this morning as a daily paper, and ventures into the broader and deeper sea of journalism. THE DISPATCH believes that in taking this step it is supplying a demand made by the people of Utah county for a daily journal that will safely represent their interests, economically, politically and otherwise. Our county in population and riches ranks second in this great commonwealth. No other locality in all this western country has so many large and thriving cities within the same area; in fact it may well be called "the city of Utah county," so contiguous are all our interests. It is for this broad city that THE DISPATCH will use its best endeavors, and for no one locality, as it realizes the interests of all within the borders of Utah county are identical. Considering all conditions and circumstances, the time is opportune for the publication of a newspaper that will reach the homes of the people before the dawns of the day begin, and we do not doubt but what the public will appreciate this fact.

We cannot better define our political policy than refer our readers to the platform of the Democratic party of Utah, believing that in these principles is embodied the essence of happiness and prosperity. Since the first issue, published in January last, THE DISPATCH has consistently contended for the principle of Democracy, and advocated the burial of the bitter animosities of the dead past, and the ushering in of the higher political era. We rejoice to-day that our fondest hopes in that regard are being realized.

THE DISPATCH drew its first breath of journalistic life but six months since. That first breath was an inspiration of liberty—a deep breath, inhaled as a mountain "elixir of life," and exhaled as a "battle cry of freedom." The developments of the few months which have passed since THE DISPATCH was born have justified its existence. Born with faith in American institutions and American citizens as such, it was, because of its own sincere convictions, earnest purpose and honest speech, not infrequently as to the honesty, earnestness and intelligence of our city, county and at large, regarding all questions of public policy and civic rights and duties. THE DISPATCH has therefore gone on its way with a parade of honesty, saying what it had to say, in the spirit of the one great President furnished our country by the Republican party, the immortal LINCOLN—"with malice toward none, with charity for all."

The independent and sterling Democrats who had already taken their stand on national questions and living issues have been reinforced by many more, so that THE DISPATCH represents what it believes to be an honest, fearless, patriotic, and certainly a growing constituency.

With the growth of public interest in the discussion now upon us, our editors are naturally enlarged and a daily edition demanded. The consistency of our aims and views saves us from all danger of making ourselves ridiculous by the "ground and lumpy" tumbler of the circus ring. But let us not be too harsh in our contempt for the acrobatic feats of our Enquirer contemporary. Only consider what a dilemma our neighbor was in. An organ without a party in an even more embarrassing "fix" than a party without an organ.

No wonder our neighbor opposed to the last abandonment of local and sectional organizations. Nor could it be expected to fall in behind "an instant of days" like THE DISPATCH, an out and out Democratic paper. It was easier, it appears, to renounce its journalistic predilections of the past and tie to the newly organized Republican forces. Truly "consistency is a jewel," but one which the Enquirer will get along just as well without when attempting to defend and expound the protective tariff, for that is a task in the present status of industrial affairs, and in the medley of conflicting views and interests renders consistency out of the question.

goods higher or by excluding them? If they are excluded, we have seen that not a cent of revenue goes to the government, but all the benefits are enjoyed by the manufacturer. But if some goods do pay the high tariff and come in, how can it reduce prices? and if it does, how can our manufacturers succeed? They could not live, the protectionist tells us, when goods were brought in so cheaply, and now will they tell us how they will be able to survive when imported goods are cheaper?

Please give us some logic showing by what process of reasoning you are going to harmonize your theories with the facts.

Again we say, follow up those protectionist assertions to their logical conclusions and you will come to the same result that every political economist has—that is, that the theory is wrong; just as DANIEL WEBSTER did and as GRANTHAM has, and as many other of the greatest minds of the earth have.

IS MR. BRIMHALL SATISFIED?

The following communication came to us third-hand yesterday. It was handed to one gentleman to be handed to another, to be handed to us for publication:

Provo, June 24, 1891.

Editor MORNING DISPATCH.

I am endeavoring to solve a political problem, and having no experience, little inclination and less ability in that direction, I come to you for assistance. Will you kindly explain how a person's name can be consistently attached without his knowledge or consent to a platform of principles with the following preamble, published in this morning's DISPATCH under the heading of "Democratic Club of Provo City?"

"Believing as we do that the changed as well as the rapidly changing conditions in the social and political status of this Territory justify the abandonment of the political organizations which have heretofore existed, and that the time has now arrived when the political parties of this Territory should be formed upon the lines of national politics, leaving each individual citizen to choose for himself his affiliation with the one or the other of the two great political parties of the country according to his preference, and confident of the virtue, patriotism and integrity of the masses of the people, as Democrats we make the following declaration of principles."

Now, while I am willing to make allowance for error, I protest against the unauthorized (for such it is) use of my name as a signer of the preamble or the declaration of principles following it. I do this not so much from a desire to pose as an opponent to Democracy as I do from the conviction that it would be decidedly un-American to allow myself to be politically pitched, either to or from my position where it is my prerogative to stand. Respectfully,

GEO. H. BRIMHALL.

We regret as much as any one that Mr. BRIMHALL's name was enrolled on the Democratic list and published in THE DISPATCH without his consent. We published names only as handed us by members of the different clubs, but just who passed in Mr. BRIMHALL's name we are unable to ascertain. This has been fully explained to Mr. BRIMHALL, and it was explained to him, too, by more than one person, that in taking up the delegation from the Fourth and Fifth precincts his name was at once stricken from the list when it was known that he had not joined. We thought the gentleman was fully satisfied with the explanation and why he should now be so sarcastic we cannot say. It was purely a mistake, as every thinking person must see. God forbid that the Democratic party should use any man's name to further their cause. They don't need to do so. The principles and practices of the party are the only criteria that should guide one in this choice of parties.

KEEP RELIGION AND POLITICS SEPARATE.

According to the Enquirer of the 24th inst., JOHN HENRY SMITH is credited with having used the following language:

"I make no figure of the fact that I am one of the Apostles of the Lord. I stand before you simply as a citizen of the United States and a Republican. We have contended for years on a principle of our faith; we have been opposed in every direction; we have fought for it on one side and another until the highest judicial tribunal in the United States has decided the law of the land, or else the government would be no government that would not compel obedience."

From the above language we are inclined to believe that the words "we" meant members of the church, and that "our faith" had no reference to Republican faith.

If the published report is correct, (and it undoubtedly is, as the Enquirer is the Republican organ,) that meeting seemed more of a religious gathering than a Republican rally, and it seems that John Henry Smith acted in a dual capacity—that of an Apostle and that of a Republican speaker. There can be no valid objections to any one in any position taking the stump in behalf of his political convictions, but we are of the opinion that no man should drag into politics his religious faith in order to make converts.

ON THE ANXIOUS SEAT.

It would seem to us that our Republican contemporary is gradually becoming educated to the fact that Utah county is not exactly "overwhelmingly Republican." And the following extracts from the Enquirer of last night would lead one to believe that its editor is becoming slightly anxious as to the outcome of the August election:

"The necessity of some lively work among the Republicans is being more and more felt throughout Utah county. Republicans must get an active movement on them, and organize clubs in all cities, towns and hamlets of the county. The people are anxiously waiting, and an easy victory awaits the Republicans next fall, if the forces are put in fighting order."

The August election, it should be remembered, will be a warm contest, and a thorough organization is the secret of success.

We quite agree with the Enquirer when it makes the statement that there is need of some "lively work among Republicans," although THE DISPATCH cannot create the favored class in the present status of the situation. It is only a penny, but that tax meets the American producer at every step from the cradle to the grave. It enhances the cost of his labor and bread, it taxes the Bible in which is recorded birth and death, and threatens free whiskey lest the sacred book go untaxed. The aggregate thus illecealed has been sufficient to create the favored class in this country, which now assume the right to rule because of their wealth.

DEMOCRACY does not, nor never did, nor never will depend for its continuance upon the membership of any person, though he was one of renown. Democracy has its foundation laid in the soil of eternal truth, and its grand superstructure is built on the everlasting pillars of human rights. No, no; one man or a thousand men cuts no figure whatever—not even a shadow.

JOSEPH SMITH'S VIEWS.

Our evening neighbor is indulging in some questionable political methods to induce members of the Mormon church to become Republicans by alleging that JOSEPH SMITH was a Republican, and by quoting from his "Powers and Policy of the Government." It also asks you to buy that work. Well, if you do, we request you to read it thoroughly, and when you do so you will find that JOSEPH SMITH spoke most approvingly of the virtuous, venerable and respected THOMAS JEFFERSON. He also says of JEFFERSON, one of the greatest of Democrats:

"GENERAL JEFFERSON'S administration may be denominated the acme of American glory, liberty and prosperity, for the national debt, which in 1815, on account of the preceding war, was $125,000,000, and being lessened gradually, was paid up in his golden day, and preparations were made to distribute the surplus revenue among the several states; and that august patriot, to use his own words in his farewell address, retired leaving a great people prosperous and happy, in the full enjoyment of liberty and peace, honored and respected by every nation on the globe."

In 1844, when General JOSEPH SMITH was a candidate for President of the United States, his party adopted, among other things, the following resolutions:

"Resolved, That the better to carry out the principles of liberty and of equal rights, JEFFERSONIAN Democracy, free trade and sailors' rights, and the protection of person and property, we will support General JOSEPH SMITH for the President of the United States at the ensuing election."

Preparations were being made for an active campaign and a national convention was to be held in New York, July 12, but before the time for the convention had arrived the standard-bearer of the party of reform, JEFFERSONIAN Democracy, free trade and sailors' rights, fell pierced by assassins' bullets, the victim of a cruel mob.—Historical Record, p. 779.

This is the platform under which JOSEPH SMITH entered the campaign, and these are the political principles he espoused—pure Democracy. Now, who can say he was a Republican? We don't ask any one to be a Democrat because JOSEPH SMITH advocated Democratic doctrine. We would much have preferred to say nothing about this. Whatever his politics may have been shouldn't influence anyone in his choice. Once for all we answer what has been said so that people may know the truth, and now we wish to drop this kind of politics and enter upon a discussion of the principles and practices of the two great parties.

WE WANT MEN OF THOUGHT.

Democrats believe in the fullest investigation of the principles of Democracy, and hold that no man can be a consistent, reasonable Democrat without first becoming acquainted with those great fundamental truths upon which Democracy rests. It matters not so much who the men were that proclaimed these truths, or in what age or among what people. What does concern every person is that his judgment be the result of careful inquiry and earnest, sober thoughts upon the elements and principles that constitute the object of thought, and that his future action, be it political or otherwise, conform to that judgment.

The person whose political conduct is the result of man worship is a dangerous element. His education is wanting, his training of a serious character, and his inclinations, therefore, tend to wild zeal and absolute fanaticism.

We want no hero worshippers in our ranks. We want "men of thought and men of action," that will clear the mists of ignorance, break down oppression and guarantee to every one his rightful sovereignty.

MCKINLEY WILL soon commence airing himself now that he is the choice of his party for Governor of Ohio. This brings to our mind that one of the promises made by the defenders of the monstrous MCKINLEY bill was that it would increase the wages of American labor. MR. MCKINLEY will now have the opportunity of explaining on the stump why it was that just as he is nominated for Governor on the platform of the McKinley bill, 22,000 mill operatives in the city of Fall River, Mass., are asked to submit to a reduction of wages amounting to 10 per cent.

Kentucky Moonshiners.

A term in prison has no effect whatever on a moonshiner's zeal for his occupation, except that it makes him, when he is released, a more expert. He will be more than ready to take his term in jail, but that does not trouble him in the least, for he knows that like a faithful wife, his spouse has long ago set up a new still and is quietly pursuing the same old business, the safer for his absence. I do not doubt but that at the present time the families of fully half of these prisoners are making whiskey as fast as if the lord of the still were not in the clutches of the law.

Is it dangerous to be a moonshiner? We are always prepared to die, for we never know when we are walking into an ambush. They never come out and fight us openly, but "lay for us" behind rocks and trees, fire a volley, and by the time we can return the shots are far out of danger. You often hear of an officer being killed, but seldom a moonshiner, unless it be his "own make." It is very rarely that they defend their stills, and it is exceedingly hard to find the owners as when captured they are usually deserted.

The other evening at the lake, when G. W. Graves, the boat builder, was out in his single scull taking a little exercise, he ran into the steamer "Helen." He was pulling at a good pace, and he struck the steamer, with such force that he was dumped into the lake. He scrambled into the boat again and pulled to shore, his arduous exercise having been cooled completely by his ducking. The tip of the boat was broken off, otherwise it sustained no damage.

WRAPT IN FLAMES

The Territorial Reform School

Burned to the Ground.

The Occupants escape from the Burning Building and Find Refuge in the Military Academy—The Territory Out About $55,000.

Special to the Dispatch.

OGDEN, June 24.—A blaze broke forth from the roof of the Territorial Reform School at 8:20 o'clock yesterday morning and continued with fierce and desolating effect until about noon, when it was gotten under control. All that remains now is the blackened remnant of a structure that was erected by the Territory at a cost of $55,000, with $10,000 added for furniture, the whole being covered by insurance in the sum of $30,000, with a loss of $40,000 or more.

The building was erected in 1889, and consisted of four floors and a basement. Upon the first were the offices and dining room, the second was divided into class rooms and the third and fourth to the dormitory. There were 40 boys and 6 girls inmates at the time the fire started, and these were all removed to the military academy where they will be provided for until such time as the structure is restored.

The fire was discovered while all the inmates were within, and a panic threatened to follow the alarm but for the courage of the officials, who quickly conducted the pupils to the space without. Attention was first called to a dense volume of smoke that arose from the dry roof upon which a quantity of soot had deposited itself. The chemical engine that is kept at the institution was resorted to, but in the absence of a ladder of sufficient length to reach the roof, it was practically of no service whatever. Situation in the extreme northeast portion of the city, the fire department experienced considerable difficulty in reaching the scene. In the meantime the flames had gnawed their way to the interior of the building, and were cutting their way through rafters to the lower floors, until they were literally a furnace of flame. The fire department was making a desperate effort to prevent them, however, and while there is little in the crumbling walls to comfort those who stood by, the boys are entitled to much credit for their effort.

A call for a meeting of the board of directors was promptly posted. The board had just decided on the construction of an annex to the building, but this program will at least be temporarily abandoned.

Of the inmates in the institution the large percentage was from Salt Lake, but in the confusion that reigned it was impossible to secure the personnel. Parents need have no fear of their security, however, as they are all safe at the military academy, the only casualty reported being that in which Charles Brighton sustained a sprained ankle. It looks at this time as if the walls would all have to be razed to the ground and the building constructed from the ground up.

Opposing Education.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Commissioner Morgan of the Indian bureau has received a telegram from Superintendent Collins of the Mogi Pueblo Indian school, in Kean's canon, in Arizona, in which he states that the Indians are threatening to kill the white men and take their children from the schools, and asks that military reinforcements be sent to the school. The commissioner referred the telegram to the war department with a recommendation that additional reinforcements be forwarded and the ring leaders in the present trouble be arrested and held pending a settlement of the difficulty. The present trouble has grown out of the fact that the Indians opposed having their children attend schools.

A Desperate Arrest.

OGDEN, Utah, June 25.—Abner Bell, of this county, was arrested yesterday by Sheriff Bellnap on a telegram received from the sheriff at Fort Collins, Colo. Bell made a desperate effort to kill the sheriff, and then attempted suicide to avoid arrest. He will recover notwithstanding a fearful wound in his neck. He says he is willing to return to Colorado without a requisition.

Republicans, Attention.

Republicans of Utah will hold a convention at Ogden, July 10th and 11th. For this occasion, the Union Pacific will sell tickets to Ogden at the rate of $3.00 for the round trip. Tickets will be sold July 10th and 11th, good to return July 13th. Trains leave at 7:35 a. m. and 3:45 p. m.

ABDUCTS THE CHILD.

Not Satisfied With Using His Wife for a Football.

George Hawes Summerville Takes Possession of Her One-Year-Old Child.

For some time past there has been stormy times in the home of George Hawes, who resides in the western part of the city, somewhere in the neighborhood of the Sun Foundry. One of George's favorite amusements has been to vary the monotony of a quiet existence by using his wife for a punching bag, and at other times as a football. During yesterday the gentleman acted in his usual frisky manner, varying the performance by an excessive dose of kicks and blows. After this unusual (or inhuman) exercise, he left his home and wandered up town. Very early Thursday morning he entered the house where his wife and one-year-old child were quietly sleeping. Seizing a shawl, he enveloped the child in his folds and fled, no one at present knows where. The mother is almost frantic, and the police are on the lookout for this distinguished citizen.

DEMOCRACY AT HEBER.

Judge Dusenberry and Hon. Wm. H. King Instruct the People.

W. H. King and Judge Dusenberry were up from Provo and gave the good people of Heber a first-class Democratic lecture last Saturday night. Mr. King expounded the doctrine of Democracy in a very able manner and was followed by Judge Dusenberry. The Heber Hall was filled with appreciative listeners. After the two gentlemen were through speaking, President Hatch arose and made a few remarks and advised the people to withhold their decision as to which party they would connect themselves with until after they had heard the Republican side of the story next Saturday evening. Mr. King is a fluent speaker and his remarks called forth frequent applause from his audience. He gave a brief history of the two political parties and explained in a very able manner the tariff question as viewed from a Democratic standpoint. He showed how, under this system of taxation, the masses were taxed to foster and protect the favored classes; to encourage, maintain and build up monopolies; to oppress the poor and aggrandize the rich; and to fill the coffers of the rich and the treasury of the nation from the hard earnings of the laboring classes.—Wasatch Wave.
